ABOUT ANANTARA CONVENTO DI AMALFI GRAND HOTEL

This uniquely beautiful setting, with its natural cave, historic cloisters and verdant lemon gardens, has inspired artists, painters and travellers from all over the world for years.

The foundations date back to the 13th Century when Christian Ascetics chose the site – then a simple cave in the cliffside – for their quiet contemplation and prayers.

Over the centuries it was the setting for a Cistercian Abbey and home to Capuchin friars, who built a refectory and kitchen, widened and reinforced the convent and cultivated the land.

In 1866, the convent became a possession of the town hall of Amalfi and was converted into a Nautical Institute. In the 20th Century, the setting was transformed again into a hotel; the cliffside terrace was built to delight diners and the cloisters were restored.

Today, guests can enjoy contemporary comforts in this storied setting, surrounded by historic features including the ceramic and majolica tiled floors and the monks' quarters with their sense of serenity and peace.
