A RIVER of COCKTAILS

PING

450

Tanqueray Gin, Watermelon & Dill Cordial, Lillet Rose, Tonic

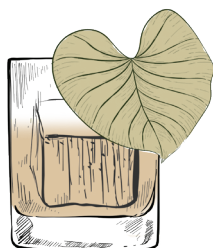

The Ping River originates in the mountains of Chiang Rai and once linked the Silk Road with Lanna. The Lanna region was under Burmese rule for two centuries before King Taksin of Thonburi attacked in 1774, reclaiming it for Siam.

WANG

450

Lychee, Butterfly Pea Sous Vide Ketel One Vodka, St.Germain, Silpin Lychee, Lemon, Apple Juice

The Wang River originates in the mountains of Chiang Rai, where it fertilizes the region's many orchards before feeding into the Ping. This cocktail blends vodka and elderflower liqueur with two of Chiang Rai's most popular fruits: lychees and apples.

YOM

550

Stranger & Sons, Thyme Syrup, Darjeeling Bianco, Aperol

Just like the Yom River begins as a tiny trickle in the mountains of Laos, the Tai people were trickling down through Laos into Lanna from South China for centuries, but migration exploded in the 12th and 13th centuries as the Mongol armies under Genghis Khan and Kublai Khan expanded their empire south.

NAN

550

Naked Malt, Shiraz & Ginger Reduction, Dom Benedictine, Cherry Heering, Aromatic Bitter

The Nan River originates in the Luang Prabang mountain range in northern Thailand. It is a major tributary of the Chao Phraya. We use fruit wine from the region to create a longer spicier finish and present it as a mountain in the clouds.

CHAO PHRAYA

550

Phraya Gold Rum, Fermented Rice Puree,
Cha-Plu Syrup, Coconut Juice, Lime Juice

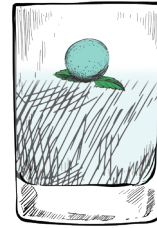

The Ping and Nan rivers converge at Pak Nam Pho and become the Chao Phraya, flowing past Thailand's first distillery as it makes its way towards the sea. We take their rum and meld it with herbs that grow naturally along the riverbanks and serve it in bamboo, a traditional way of transporting liquids.

THA-CHIN

450

Rum Flor De Cana Extra Dry Slow Aged 4 Years,
Coconut Pandan Shrub, Frangelico

The Tha Chin River is not a tributary of the Chao Phraya River, but a distributary that split off Chai Nat and empties into the Thai Gulf at Samut Sakhon. It flows past Ban Phaeo, a region famous for coconut production, so we mixed coconut with hazelnut liqueur and rum for a taste of the tropics.

PASAK

450

Cilantro Sous Vide Jose Cuervo Tradicional Silver,
Orgeat Syrup, Tartaric Solution, Tabasco, Jalapeno Brine

The Pa Sak River begins in Loei province and flows through Phetchabun's tamarind orchards, before reaching the Chao Phraya. We take natural acids from tamarind and mix them with tequila, cilantro, salt and spice for a Tom Yum taste which is truly Thai.
